

Inclusive Leadership Compass and Inkling Group Collaborate to Enhance Inclusive Leadership Effectiveness in Australia

[May, 2024] Inclusive Leadership Compass (ILC), a global provider of inclusive capability assessment and development solutions, is delighted to announce a new collaboration with Australian-based consulting firm, Inkling Group.

As part of this collaboration, Inkling will utilize the ILC's innovative assessment and development tools to enhance their existing DEI and Leadership consulting services, providing their clients with deeper insights and actionable strategies for enhancing inclusive leadership.

"Inclusive Leadership Compass is thrilled to collaborate with Inkling, a firm that shares our commitment to inclusive leadership development," said ILC Co-CEOs Dr Sandy Caspi Sable and Bernadette Dillon. "By combining our innovative solutions with Inkling's deep expertise in consulting, we can help Australian businesses foster a more inclusive and effective leadership culture."

"Inkling is excited to integrate Inclusive Leadership Compass cutting-edge tools into our consulting services," said Rashida Lowe, Inkling Chief Delivery Officer. "This collaboration will allow us to offer unparalleled inclusive leadership assessment solutions for our clients, strengthening the impact of our client partnerships and helping them to achieve greater impact through inclusion."

For more information about the Inclusive Leadership Compass, visit <https://inclusiveleadershipcompass.com/>

To learn more about Inkling Group, visit <https://inkling.group/>

About Inclusive Leadership Compass: Founded in 2018 and led by a team of recognized experts in DEI, the ILC provides assessment and development solutions to help leaders, managers and individual contributors be more inclusive. The ILC partners with client organizations globally, including Fortune 500 companies, premier universities, global consulting firms and major not-for-profits, to build the inclusive capability of their people.

About Inkling Group: Inkling Group, founded in 2011, is a specialist consulting firm that partners with organizations to unlock human potential and create more inclusive workplaces. They do this through an evidence-based approach, applying psychology and behavioral science. With deep expertise in diversity, inclusion, leadership, and professional well-being, Inkling Group has worked with leaders in over 23 countries and is a trusted partner for some of the world's biggest brands and leading organizations.